

Deals with an order that a customer wishes to purchase. Totals up the number of products in the order, adds their total price together then adds tax for the final total, and printing a receipt with all the information for the order. Also handles the payment method that the customer chooses.

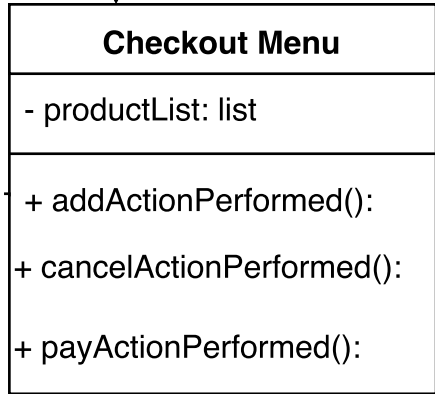

The user interface that displays the GUIs that the user can choose from to either add, update, or go to the register to ring up a customer's order.

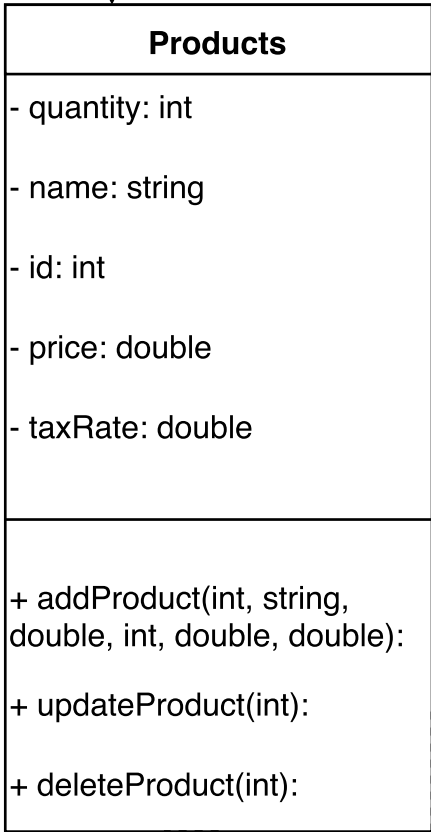

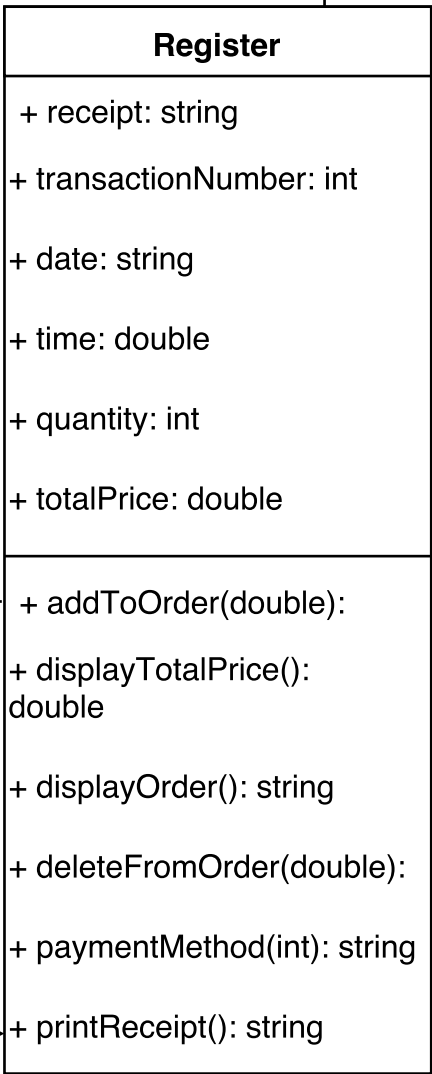

Handles the GUI for the add and update products option

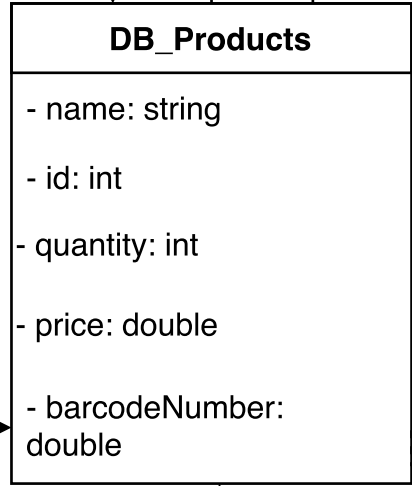

Handles the GUI for the product menu

Handles the GUI for the register/checkout screen

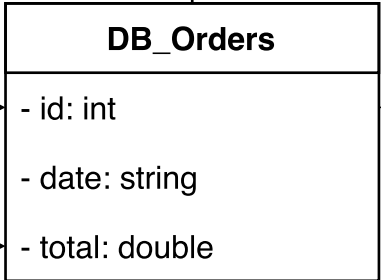

Creates a product with all of the unique information each product needs

Database for all of the products in the store

Database for all of the orders that happen

Database for the chronological order that every particular order happens

